Grant and Hannah were walking to school when, suddenly, Wyatt stood in their path. "Uh-oh," Grant said. Wyatt had caused problems for Grant and Hannah before. He liked to pick on other kids, and one time, he knocked Hannah down.

"Maybe we better run," Hannah suggested, but as they turned around, Wyatt was right behind them.

"Hey, wait," he called. "I just want to talk. I'm sorry I hurt you before."

Sofia and Jayden were best friends. They liked to do everything together. Sofia's birthday was coming, and Jayden was helping her plan a party. "Let's invite Gabriella," Jayden suggested.

"I don't know," Sofia replied. "Remember last summer when her family came over for a cookout, and you and I went off to play without her? My mother said we were rude to her and hurt her feelings. I didn't tell you because I was embarrassed. I apologized to Gabriella, but I don't think she will come again."

"Let's try," said Jayden.

The girls sent an invitation to Gabriella.

Jesus Taught About Forgiveness

MATTHEW 18:21-35

Peter came to Jesus one day and asked Him a question: “If my brother sins against me, how many times should I forgive him? Seven times?”

Jesus answered that seven times would not be enough. Jesus said, “Seventy times seven.”

Jesus told a story to explain. He said there was a king who wanted to collect money from his servants who owed him money. There was one servant who owed the king 10,000 talents. The servant had no way to pay the king back that much money, so the king demanded that the servant, his family, and everything he owned to be sold and the money given to the king.

The servant fell to his knees and begged the king to be patient. The servant promised he would pay the king everything he owed him if the king would just give him more time. The king felt sorry for the servant and set him free. The king also forgave the servant’s debt and said he did not have to pay back any of the money he owed.

When the servant left the king, he found a fellow servant who owed him 100 denarii. The first servant grabbed the man, started choking him, and said, “Pay what you owe!” The fellow servant fell to his knees and begged for patience. He promised he would pay back all he owed.

But the first servant would not forgive the man. He wanted his money. He threw the man in prison until he could pay the entire amount.

When the king heard about this, he called for the first servant to be brought back to him. The king said the servant was evil. The king had forgiven the servant the huge amount of money he owed, but then the forgiven servant did not show any kindness or forgiveness to his fellow servant.

The king sent the first servant to jail until he could pay everything that was owed. Jesus told Peter everyone should forgive and really mean it.
